Since its inception in 2003, Kyambogo University has largely focused on giving students knowledge and skills so that they are able to create jobs after studying. The University has now established itself as a center of quality education with a niche in Engineering, Vocational Education, Teacher Education and Special Needs Education.

In our effort to provide quality education, the government has greatly helped us in many ways including: paying salaries for staff and we are happy about the steady increment in the welfare of our staff. The government also pays for more than 2500 of our students on government sponsorship.

On infrastructure development, the government has supported us build a number of buildings with state of the art equipment, which has made space and learning enjoyable for our students and staff. Some of the buildings include: the Central Lecture Faculty, Science Complex, and Engineering Complex with modern equipment, Library among others.
